Three Bids Approved By Board

The Board of Appeals has granted three petitions and denied one in connection with the zoning by-laws.

John E. Deloury and George Morey were granted a variance on property at 46 Lowell Junction Road to allow the construction of a contractor's yard and building.

At a public hearing at the Memorial Hall library, Deloury explained that he sought a five-foot variance in order to place the building on comparatively level ground for better drainage into the town culvert. The Planning Board, the Industrial Commission and neighbors all spoke in favor of the petition.

Harry C. Mitchell of Arlington was granted a special permit for the operation of a professional horse farm at 36 Rocky Hill Road. He plans to train, care for and raise standard bred and show horses. The premises are not for use as a riding stable. Hence, there will be no horse shows or auctions on the grounds.

Subject to conditions concerning housing and sanitary factors, the farm will eventually have a maximum of 14 stalls and an outdoor circular training track.

Henry R. Himber of 219 Salem Street was granted a variance to allow the construction of an addition to his house, since the board found that the variance would not affect the neighborhood in general.

Stephen R. Duly was denied a petition to construct an addition to his property at 181 Lowell St., on the ground that it would be outside the intent and purpose of the zoning by-law.

Davidson Agrees To State View

The owner of the cluster of eight hovels in Temple Place, off High St., has indicated a willingness to have the state look over the property with a view of taking it over, possibly for low income housing.

In one of his infrequent visits to Andover, John Davidson, of Quechee Lakes, Vt., who bought the property from Richard W. Lally of 48 Central St., last September, told Thomas P. Eldred, chairman of the Andover Housing Authority, that he would agree to a state appraisal.

"Davidson didn't want to say anything definitely, but he told

It is that time of year again when tarring the streets is part of the program of preserving the surfaces. Here at Foster Circle, a tip truck spreads material that will cling to undersides of cars in the interests of better roads.

Electronic Coup For Town Bargain Hunter

A sharp eye for government surplus bargains has given Andover some electronic equipment for a fraction of its market value.

The equipment not only will provide the police department with a device for recording telephone and radio calls but there also was enough left over to furnish the high school science department with some valuable teaching tools.

The price of the complete package was $75. Another $2,000 will cover the cost of putting the equipment in working order. On the open market, the recording device alone would have cost $8,000 to $10,000.

The shopper was John Lewis, Federal-State coordinator, who serves under the Emergency Employment Act. He was looking for office furniture in a Govern-

Tax Bills In Mail

Tax bills to Andover property owners are expected to be in the mails by tomorrow, Collector Myron H. Muise said this week. Payment is due Oct. 1.

Muise suggested that taxpayers call his office if they have not received their bills within the following week. The number is 475-0868.

The total revenue represented by the tax bills is $10,351,636.

There will be a 30-day grace period from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1. Bills unpaid after that date will be subject to interest at 8 per cent.

Tar Season On Wane In Streets

The annual necessary chore of tarring streets to preserve the surface is nearing completion, Andover motorists will be pleased to learn.

Robert E. McQuade, Public Works Director, listed this week 48 streets on which work has been undertaken. Four remained unfinished.

The purpose of the tarring, which often times is the despair of mothers with small children, motorists with newly polished cars and pedestrians trying to cross streets, is to revitalize the macadam.

Constant wear and tear of the surface by passing traffic dries out the natural moisture. The tar restores it. Sanding is intended to neutralize the gumminess of the tar.

This year, the job was made more difficult by continual rain, which tended to wash out the effect of the tar without adding any lasting moisture to the roadways.

There still remains the follow up task of sweeping up the sand. Here again, the bad weather has hindered progress. Meanwhile, sand has been accumulating in gutters, especially along hilly streets, where the material has been washed downhill, plugging up storm drains to add to the woes of the highway department.

In addition, the sand has dried out before the sweepers could begin their work and passing cars have sent up clouds of oily dust that has seeped into houses to the consternation of housewives.

Altogether, the project underscores the price of automotive transportation. In the old days of horses and buggies, roads were tarred also, but there were fewer streets, fewer people, and individuals seemed to cope better with such annoyances.

Today, heavier cars, campers

Charles Winters, Andover letter carrier, examining the new snorkel mail box on the northbound side of Main street opposite the post office. It was named in honor of the vacationing managing editor of The Townsman, Robert E. Finneran, whose editorial prompted the postal service to install the device.

Ever since early caveman explored the culinary delight of searing meat over the fire he had just discovered, cooking outdoors has become one of America's great pastimes.

Second Snorkel Mail Box Placed In Response To Townsman Editorial

Acting on a suggestion in a recent TOWNSMAN editorial, Postmaster Francis J. Mooney has placed a second snorkel mail box on Main St. opposite the Andover post office.

The editorial, appearing in the July 20 edition, was written by Robert E. Finneran, managing editor of The TOWNSMAN. He suggested that the second box would eliminate the necessity for motorists to drive all around the block to reach the one on the southbound side of Main St.

For years, a snorkel, so-called because its mouth extends into the street to receive mail deposited from automobiles, stood directly in front of the post office building, as required by regulations.

But, the location not only posed a maneuvering problem for motorists trying to back away and into the traffic flow but also, more often than not, cars were parked there without regard to the restriction sign noting that the spot was for a mail drop only.

Some weeks ago, Postmaster Mooney had the box moved several feet past the post office and placed in front of the building occupied by Kenneth P. Thompson Company and the House of Clean.

The move was generally hailed, since the spot is situated between entrance and exit ways to the stores, and decreases the need for tight maneuvering. That was fine for southbound drivers. Then, Editor Finneran figured that it would be an improvement if a companion box could be placed across the street, for northbound cars.

"It seemed like a good idea, so we did it," said Postmaster Mooney. The box is in front of the apartment building that also houses Vinny's barber shop.

Finneran left on vacation over the weekend. But someone placed a sign against the box, reading, "Finneran's Snorkel."

As one passerby commented, "Better than Finneran's wake!"

Appointed District Manager

Michael F. Fiori of Samos Lane, has been named District Manager for Brigham's, it was announced this week.

A native of San Diego, Calif., he received his B.A. degree in Business Management from the University of California at Santa Barbara in 1966. He began his business career with Brigham's in 1971 as a trainee in its management program and recently was head of the Brigham's Liberty Tree facilities.

He and his wife have two children.

Area Study On Employment

A number of households in this area will be included in a nationwide survey on employment and unemployment to be conducted next week by the Bureau of the Census, Arthur G. Dukakis, Acting Director of the Bureau's Data Collection Center in Boston has announced.

The survey is taken monthly by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor. The households interviewed are scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all households.

Statistics on conditions in the labor force from month to month provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the country. In June, for example, the Nation's unemployment rate dropped to 5.5 percent. The decline, from 5.9 percent in May, brought the jobless rate to its lowest level in more than a year and a half.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is held confidential by law and is used only to compile statistical totals.

Environment Program At College

Approval was granted this week by the Massachusetts State Board of Higher Education to Northern Essex Community College, Haverhill, of the college's newly created associate degree program in Environmental Technology.

Newly adopted laws restricting the use of open dumps, discharge of waste material into local waterways, and prohibition of open-air burning have spotlighted the need for new methods of waste disposal and water purification which minimize environmental pollution. The Environmental Technology program will provide trained technologists skilled in modern techniques used to handle problems of pollution in the major areas of water, air and solid-waste disposal.

The new program is designed to provide a broad foundation in the chemical and biological sciences as they relate to problems associated with processing waste and recycling its by-products. This foundation will be supplemented by courses keyed to specific engineering applications. The Associate in Science Degree in Environmental Technology will be awarded to students successfully completing the requirements of the program.

The Environmental Technology program will develop technicians trained to work in the major pollution areas. Graduates will be prepared for employment in town and city engineering offices, solid waste disposal plants, health inspection agencies, pollution prevention and control agencies, sewage treatment and recycling plants, environmental planning offices, land usage commissions and other related areas. Graduates will be trained in accordance with guidelines established by the United States Department of the Interior.

The Environmental Technology program will begin in the September, 1972 semester. The college will accept late applications from prospective students interested in the new program. Interested students should telephone the Office of Admissions at the college (374-0721) immediately, stating that they wish to apply for the new program in Environmental Technology. Students already accepted into the college, or on the waiting list, should notify the Office of Admissions at once if they are interested in transferring into this program. Work experience in the area will be considered in evaluating applications.

Robert McQuade, Director of Public Works, Andover; Dr. Eugene Grillo, Environmental Consultant to Western Electric Company, Andover and the City of Haverhill; Dr. Vincent S. Turano, Assistant Professor of Sanitary Engineering, Merrimack College, North Andover; and Dr. Conrad Rossitto, Senior Technical Advisor to the Chemical Division of U.S.M. Corporation, Middleton, assisted in development of the program.

Victims Of Oil Spills

Another oil spill in New England . . . it's getting to be an old story. This week it was 40,000 gallons of heavy oil spilled by a Norwegian tanker near the Portland Harbor.

Several islands in beautiful Casco Bay were polluted by the oil, in spite of the Coast Guard's best efforts to surround and contain it.

The part of the oil that touches land is only the seen part: the unseen pollution is the damage caused to marine life. Oil-covered birds are obvious and noticeable, but fish, shellfish and other sea animals are equally victims.

According to scientist Max Blumer of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, adverse effects of a relatively small oil spill in 1969, in West Falmouth, are still present in the marine life of the area. We can expect similar effects in Casco Bay.

The oil spills we read about in the paper are only a small portion of the spills. Damaged tankers have the most spectacular accidents, but a great deal of oil is spilled by non-tankers in refueling. Oceanfloor drilling for oil adds its quota of accidents causing oil pollution.

Sixty percent, or one billion metric tons, of the world's annual oil production is transported by sea. It is estimated that four to five million tons of oil are spilled in the oceans every year.

Although research is being done into ways of containing and removing oil spills, no one has really come up with a way to clean up without a large amount of oil escaping. It is essential to find better ways of preventing oil spills before they occur.

Oil pollutes when it is transported, and it pollutes when it is used. But we need energy. Nuclear power is still not really safe. Hydroelectric power has already used up all the best dam sites. . . and nearly every spot that is left is a dam site better off in its present, unspoiled condition.

So how do we get the energy we need?

Solar power? Tidal power? Wind power? Geothermal Power?

No one has the answer. About all one can say is. . . we need more research, urgently, quickly, into all possible solutions.

Maybe solar power is a possibility. "One square meter perpendicular to the sun receives about one kilowatt hour of solar energy each hour. If all this heat and light energy could be converted to electricity, a square ten miles on a side would receive as much energy as the U.S. uses for an entire year." That's what the Environmental Action Committee of the University of Colorado says. They think solar power may eventually be the best solution to our energy problem. But needless to say, there are a few problems to be ironed out before solar energy becomes practical.

But I have a nice theory. Maybe by the time all those dams which are now making hydroelectric power have entirely silted up, we'll have solved the problems of using solar power. . . and we'll have all those square miles of good, flat, silted-up land behind all those old hydro-electric dams, just waiting there to be used for collecting solar energy. Unless, of course, it appears more feasible to let photo-synthetic plants use solar energy to turn all that fertile silt into food for all the extra people that will be living by that time. . . if anyone is alive at all by that time.

Cleary To Be Aide In Kerry Campaign

David Cleary of 188 Salem St. has been appointed town coordinator for John Kerry's campaign for U. S. Congress in the Fifth District, on the Democratic ticket.

Cleary teaches in the Social Science Department at North Reading High School.

Asserting that an involvement of an hour or two a week was a substantial contribution to any political effort, Cleary said, "Even if one can't find the time to be actively working for a candidate, one should concern oneself with the issues, know the candidates and the platforms and exercise the right to vote."

Cleary is a 1959 graduate of Harvard and received his Masters in Education from Boston State in 1961. The Clearys have resided in Andover since 1964. They have two sons.

Economy In State Improves But Unemployment Stays High

The Massachusetts economy continued to improve from May to June, even though a seasonal jump in unemployment obscured the underlying signs of recovery.

Richard C. Gilliland, Director of the Division of Employment Security, announced that state-wide employment increased to the highest level since June 1970 when all-time peak employment had been reached. Due to the annual surge of youth and housewives into the labor force at the end of the school year, however, unemployment also jumped from 7.2 to 8.3 percent of the labor force to top all previous marks since 1949. Despite this increase in the number who could not find jobs, the underlying trend showed improvement, with the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate of 7.5 percent dropping for the second consecutive month from the 7.9 percent estimated in April. The adjusted rate continues to run considerably above the comparable rate of 5.5 percent for the United States.

The Massachusetts unemployed in June numbered 225,700 (8.3 percent of the labor force) as compared with 192,400 (7.2 percent) in May and 213,000 (7.9 percent) in June 1971.

Employment statistics are the most encouraging in some time. While part of the increase in payrolls was due to the usual seasonal expansion in construction and resort establishments, the 10,600 rise in manufacturing employment from May to June was the most encouraging since early 1970.

Employment gains were diversified, with a rise of some 4300 in durable goods (especially primary and fabricated metals, machinery, electrical equipment and instruments) reflecting higher spending for capital investment and defense and a rise of 6300 in consumer goods industries representing more consumer spending. Settlement of labor disputes also had a part in the recovery in factory employment levels. After 12 months of almost uninterrupted decline, total manufacturing employment had recovered to within 100 of the number employed in June 1971.

All of the major metropolitan areas followed the state pattern of a simultaneous rise of both employment and unemployment, as the rising number of job opportunities fell short of the number needed to employ the net addition of 51,700 to the state work force.

Beacon Hill Observations

By Bill Kirtz

Despite popular rumor, the public won't buy political candidates like bars of soap. And any office-seeker who relies on his admen to help him decide what issues to run on is in as bad trouble as his constituents.

That's the view of Massachusetts admen, pollsters, campaign strategists and candidates surveying the area scene before the November elections.

The experts, speaking to colleagues and backers of various candidates throughout the state this fall admit that office-seekers sometimes use polls and consultants to find out what points the public is most concerned about.

But Barney Frank, a former aide to Boston Mayor Kevin White and Sixth District Congressman Michael J. Harrington, believes a candidate's past track record is something no amount of clever sloganizing can overcome.

"A bar of soap doesn't have a reality but a candidate does," Mr. Frank contends. And Cong. Harrington believes the public is more sophisticated than many of his colleagues realize.

"You just can't slick a guy up in eight or ten weeks and win," he says. "That's been proven."

The people given most popular credit for "selling" a candidate to the public unite in saying they really don't have all that much power.

"The whole image-making thing is overdone," says Sam Miller, who has helped candidates to success in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont.

"You can't show only one profile of your man and you have to honor some moral restraints," he says. "A communicator's power is frightening, and you always have to ask the question about an ad: is this fair?"

Richard V. Lombardi, a Boston ad agency head now active in campaigns for GOP incumbents Edward Brooke and Tenth District Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, believes "we accentuate the positive, not the negative" but feels voters today suspect all vote-getting devices. "People distrust anything with a public relations or advertising label."

He and colleagues won't help decide what issues a candidate should run on but Mr. Lombardi says he will help clients "find words to focus things better."

Jack Flannery, Governor Sargent's administrative assistant and campaign strategist, minimizes polls' role in determining the issues.

"We'll pay more attention when it gets closer to election time," he admits, "but you'd go crazy if you tried to run a government based on popularity ratings."

Mr. Frank feels, though, that if polls show a lack of citizen concern about a particular issue, a candidate might decide to stress some higher interest area. Polling has a built-in randomness, he adds, because most people simply aren't that interested in politics.

Pollster John Becker, whose findings are carried in the Boston Globe, concedes that sometimes his surveys can influence an election by turning on or off financial and organizational support for candidates.

Polling is "a news and show business game," he states. So he'll stay out of hotly contested primary elections in which published surveys might play a decisive part in discouraging some candidates and encouraging others.

Admen unite in calling their political interest more personal than financial.

"It's an ego trip," says Mr. Lombardi. "Campaigns aren't money-makers."

He says nine hopefuls asked his agency to represent them for current campaigns but that he only picked three to work for.

If a man shifts his campaign stand, says agency man Robert Vogel, "the agency should leave."

And Mr. Miller agrees that if a client says things he himself doesn't believe in, "I leave." He'll also drop one candidate if another surfaces whom he feels is better-qualified.

"Your responsibility is for a guy's whole career," he says. "That's a lot more important than selling a bottle of beer."

Elaine Kent YMCA Aide

Elaine Kent, Andover YMCA director of programs for women and girls, has been named YMCA Aquatic Field Agent for the Merrimack Valley YMCA District.

The additional responsibilities which Mrs. Kent will assume with this office include developing a leadership training and certification program for the district and serving as a resource person for all aquatic programs of the district both in YMCA pools and YMCA Camp Waterfronts.

Mrs. Kent recently represented the area at the week-long national YMCA Aquatic Conference in Colorado. She has served for many years on the staff of the New England Area YMCA Aquatic School at Springfield College and as a lecturer at aquatic leaders' training institutes throughout the six states. She is a product of the Lawrence YMCA aquatic leaders' development program and has taught at the Lawrence YMCA, the Lawrence YWCA, the Andover YMCA and the Andover town program at Pomp's Pond. She has also served as waterfront director at Camp Nokomis, the Lawrence YMCA camp for girls on Lake Winnepesaukee.

Mrs. Kent is a certified YMCA Aquatic Instructor, Red Cross Water Safety Instructor, and Red Cross Instructor in Swimming for the Handicapped.

Present Musical Burlesque

A fun musical! A family musical burlesque! Princess Winifred and her court of characters star in Mary Rodgers and Marshall Barer's hilarious comedy musical "Once Upon A Mattress." The hilarious adventures will be presented by the popular Town and Country Playhouse of Salem, N.H. through Sunday, Aug. 13 nightly at 8:15 p.m. except Sunday at 7 p.m. with a Thursday matinee at 2:30 p.m. "Once Upon A Mattress" will star Sherry Hoffman as Princess Winifred together with the entire company of professional New York performers including George Holland, Lenore Manzella, Ivan Todd, Frank Ventgen and Angelo Garfi as King Sextimus The Silent with Virginia Montella as Queen Aggravain. Sherry Hoffman recently appeared in the motion picture "Who Is Harry Kellerman" with Dustin Hoffman and has been seen in several off-Broadway productions in New York. The production will be directed by Jim Boarlin with sets designed by David McNitt.

On Monday, Aug. 14, the famous and celebrated American down-East humorist Marshall Dodge will return for a second engagement at the air-conditioned theatre. Returning from a record-breaking appearance at the famous Eugene O'Neill Theater in Connecticut, Marshall Dodge will be seen again in Salem, having appeared at the theatre in February during a severe snowstorm. He is well-known for his best selling "Bert and I" recordings and also as star of National Educational Television and Public Broadcasting System's recent "A Fresh Breeze Down East" and television spectacular "Art Expo." Dodge will appear for one performance only at 8:15 p.m.

The Town and Country Playhouse is housed in the new High School in Salem, N.H. and is easily reached via Interstate Route 93 at exit opposite Rockingham Park with plenty of free parking.

Building A Better CO-OP No. 7

New CO-OP Shopping Carts And Checkout Ease

Of the many modern improvements now occurring at the CO-OP, one of the most pleasing is sure to be our new checkout system - a first in the area.

First, you will like our new shopping carts because they are better designed. The top tray is shallow yet spacious; no piling up. The bottom tray is easier to reach but has ample room for heavy items and soaps.

Secondly, our new over-the-counter carts make checking a breeze for the shopper. The checker handles everything: lowers the gate, unloads the groceries and rings them up. No more stooping or lifting. The shopper's aisle is uncluttered.

Finally, lowering the front gate makes it easy to slide groceries into your car without straining or squatting.

Easier, more convenient grocery handling for the shopper is but one of the many ways in which this consumer-owned supermarket is becoming the store where discerning consumers prefer to get together.

Sweet Corn At Its Peak

Sweet corn is at its peak in Massachusetts and there is an extra bonus with it, according to the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture. Usually, first of the season sweet corn is a little higher priced, but due to over-production this year, sweet, local corn is very reasonable at most roadside stands and produce counters. Because of the heavy spring and early summer rain, early corn crops have matured at about the same time as the regular crop.

The corn itself, is available in either all yellow or "butter and sugar" varieties and is one of the best grade crops in years, once again because of the moisture followed by the warm, humid weather.

Here are some tips in selecting ears. Irregular rows of kernels are due only to the cloudy weather, but the quality is the same. . . excellent. A good indication of the number of kernels on an ear is the silk. Each strand represents one kernel.

If you would like to take advantage of the good supply of local corn, you can easily freeze as much as you want. Simply husk the corn to be frozen and place in boiling water for about four minutes. Then, cool the corn in cold water until it is cold to the touch. Pack as many ears as your family can eat at one sitting in freezer bags and put them into the freezer. They will keep their flavor for about 6 to 8 months. When ready to serve, simply heat, do not boil the corn.

Left-over corn can be used in several ways. Just strip the kernels and store in a bowl in your refrigerator. Left-over sweet corn is great for corn fritters, waffles, pancakes, omelettes, casseroles and puddings.

Local cultivated blueberries are in good supply at most roadside stands and produce counters.

JAMES S. McNULTY

James S. McNulty, a retired employee of the Marland Mills, died last Sunday at the Coveney Convalescent and Nursing Home in Lawrence. He was 79.

Born in North Andover, Mr. McNulty was a member of St. Augustine's parish and of the Holy Name Society. He had lived in Andover for 65 years. His home was at 85 Stevens St.

He leaves his wife, Mary J. (Mechan) McNulty; four daughters, Elizabeth R., wife of Joseph T. Conley of Lawrence; Miss Mary M. McNulty of Orange, N.J.; Josephine, wife of John J. Sullivan of Elmira, N.Y.; and Miss Frances McNulty of Andover; a brother, Frank J. McNulty of St. Petersburg, Fla.; three sisters, Mrs. Theresa Walsh of North Andover, Miss Mary B. McNulty of Lawrence and Sister Rita Bernadine S.N.D. of Methuen; 16 grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. Burial was in St. Augustine's cemetery, following a funeral Mass at the church, yesterday.

MISS DORA A. WARD

Miss Dora A. Ward, 89, 69 Lowell St., died Wednesday, Aug. 2, at the Randolph Nursing Home, following a long illness.

She was a member of the West Parish Church and the Lafalot Club, and had been employed at the former Smith and Dove Company mills in Andover.

She is survived by two nieces, Mrs. Edward T. Englund of West Newton and Miss Mary W. Putnam of Andover and a nephew, George O. Putnam of Derry, N.H.

Funeral services were held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the chapel in West Parish Cemetery. Burial was in West Parish Cemetery. Remembrances may be sent in Miss Ward's name to the West Parish Church.

INFANT ROBINSON

The infant daughter of Francis and Doris (Rheume) Robertson, 17 Burnham Road, died Tuesday Aug. 1, at Lawrence General Hospital.

Besides her parents, she leaves a brother, Francis Robertson, III; three sisters, Misses Denise, Kathleen and Debra Robertson, all of Andover; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rheume of Lawrence; and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Jean Papalardo of Lawrence.

The funeral was held Thursday, Aug. 3, from the M. A. Burke Funeral Home, 390 North Main St. Burial was in St. Augustine's Cemetery.

MRS. BARBARA MUCHOWSKI

NORTH ANDOVER - Mrs. Barbara (Mason) Muchowski, 53, 80 Edgelawn Ave., Heritage

Green, died Thursday, Aug. 3, at Lawrence General Hospital following a long illness.

She was born in North Andover, June 7, 1919. She was the wife of Chester Muchowski.

Mrs. Muchowski was a chemist for 30 years at B. F. Goodrich Co., both in Watertown, and Lumberton, N.C. She attended the Trinitarian Congregational Church.

She was a graduate of Johnson High School and Tufts College, class of 1940. Mrs. Muchowski was a member of the American Chemical Society, the American Society of Quality Control, the Lawrence D.A.R., and Lodge No. 187, O.E.S.

She leaves, besides her husband, three sisters, Miss Alice Mason of North Andover, Miss Florence Mason of North Andover and Sylvia, wife of Andrew Saslow of Winchester; a stepdaughter, Joan, wife of Adelbert Smith of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held Saturday at 11 a.m. from the R. George Caron Funeral Home, 30 Main St. Burial was in Willow Cemetery, Lynnfield.

GIUSEPPE REITANO

NORTH ANDOVER - Giuseppe Reitano, 76, 23 Foulds Terrace, died Wednesday, Aug. 2, at the Woodland Nursing Home following a long illness. A native of Italy, he had lived in this country for 60 years.

Mr. Reitano was retired from the J. & H. Horne Co. and Sons. He attended Holy Rosary Church.

He leaves his wife, Antonia (Bornacorso) Reitano; two sons, Fire Lt. Domenic S. Reitano of Lawrence and Salvatore M. Reitano of North Andover; a daughter, Ramona R., wife of Anthony P. Terranova of North Andover; two brothers, Salvatore and Antonio Reitano, both of Lawrence; a sister, Mrs. Angelina Velo of Lawrence; and 10 grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was offered Saturday at 9 a.m. in Holy Rosary Church, Lawrence. Burial was in Bellevue Cemetery.

House Speaker Sees Savings Of $183,000

A series of economy moves by the Massachusetts House is expected to result in operating savings of approximately $183,000 between now and January according to Speaker David M. Bartley (D-Holyoke).

"Most of these steps represent a continuing effort to place certain Legislative expenses and staffing on an 'in-session only basis' the Speaker said. "We've had some success with this in the past two years. We're continuing and expanding the policy this year.

"And certainly some of the savings represent our determination to live within the budgetary strictures placed on the Legislative Branch by the adoption this year of the Mass. Taxpayers Foundation Shepard Amendment freeze.

"We have tried to eliminate services which, while desirable, were non-essential. As a result of this policy, the Legislature's ability to function effectively during 1972 will not be impaired," Bartley said.

Steps taken include: House Pages: Forty House Pages have been furloughed until the Legislature begins its 1973 session. (Savings; $105,000) This is part of a continuing policy to replace full-time House Pages with part-time student pages, by attrition. The student pages would be hired with the understanding that their jobs terminate when the Legislative session ends.

Project People: Six temporary special project employees have been released and several clerical and material changes in House Rules (Savings; $54,000).

Telephone Service: Twenty of the thirty House WATS lines (Wide Area Telephone Service / flat rate charge) have been shut down until January. Two of three House switchboard units have been shut down. Individual phones of legislators not seeking reelection have been disconnected. (Estimated savings; $24,000).

Committee Stenographic Services: Individual committee stenographers have been transferred, until January, to the Legislative Service Bureau for individual assignment on a project basis by the Director.

Support Expenditures: A continuing survey by House Business Manager John Ryan of cost of services and material, telephones, typewriters, stationery, and the like, with economies to be instituted where possible.

Special Legislative Commissions: A biennial review of the relevancy and product of special legislative commissions will be undertaken later with aim of phasing out commissions whose work has been completed or commissions no longer needed. (The first such over-all review in modern times, instituted by the Speaker and Senate President in 1971, saw elimination of 60 special commissions and the return of $180,000 in unexpended funds back to State Treasury.)

Legislative Expenses: Review of administrative handling of daily legislative expenses will be undertaken later with State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane, whose office is responsible for expense disbursements.

"A number of the moves we are making could only be made when the Legislature is not in session," Bartley said.

"Thus, while the legislative work-year is open-ended and flexible, it certainly is desirable, from a tax-payer point of view, to complete the legislative business as expeditiously as possible."

GEMMELL - A daughter Aug. 7, to Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Gemmell, 290 Salem St. at Lawrence General Hospital. The mother was Anne Rees.

Miss Hill Feted At P.A. Party

Colleagues at Phillips Academy recently honored Miss Marion E. Hill of 4 Marion Ave., who has retired after nearly half a century of service to the school.

Miss Hill was lauded by the Rev. Dr. A. Graham Baldwin, retired chaplain of Phillips, and by the Rev. J. Everett Bodge, minister of South Church, where she has been an active member. The occasion was a luncheon at the home of William A. Munroe, comptroller of Phillips.

In a career that began in 1923, Miss Hill served the academy in various administrative capacities. She was purchasing agent and office manager in recent years.

At South Church, Miss Hill formerly served as president of Alpha Phi Chi, a sorority that supports church charities, especially for children. She still serves as treasurer.

During Andover's 325th anniversary in 1972, Miss Hill was secretary of the steering committee. She also has been active in the Andover Grange and is corresponding secretary of the Andover Historical Society.

Completes Corps School

Navy Hospitalman Apprentice Robert H. Cheyne, III, son of Mrs. Angela J. Cheyne of 1072 Turnpike Road, and husband of the former Miss Doreen D. Clermont of 157 Water St., both of North Andover, has completed the Hospital Corps School at Great Lakes.

He is a former student of North Andover High and Merrimack College.

Qualifies In Carrier Landings

Ensign John B. Hesser, Jr., husband of the former Miss Lynn Murphy of 170 Great Pond Road, North Andover, completed basic jet training by making six aircraft carrier landings. He will now begin the final phases of flight training leading to his designation as a Naval Aviator.

Farragher Manager In Portsmouth

John D. Farragher, former English teacher at Andover East Junior High School, has joined New England Telephone as assistant manager in the company's Portsmouth business office.

A native of Methuen, Farragher was graduated from St. John's Preparatory School in Danvers. He attended Merrimack College for two years and then transferred to the University of Massachusetts in Amherst from which he was graduated in 1965. He is now taking courses at the graduate level at Salem State College.

Prior to his teaching position in Andover, Farragher taught English and was active in other school activities at St. John's for six years.

He is a member of the Andover Junior Chamber of Commerce.

His wife is the former Barbara Richards of Andover. They have two children: Colin, three, and an infant son Kevin.

He and his family now live at 96 Maple Ave., but plan to relocate soon to Ocean Boulevard, Seabrook Beach.

Cronin To Gather Grass Roots Views

An effort to gather grass root opinions of Andover area residents is being conducted by Paul Cronin, Republican Congressional candidate and a Fifth District delegate to the Republican Convention in Miami.

"I think it's important that a delegate going to the convention relay the pulse of people in his district," said Cronin.

Cronin says he will step up his public appearances and in addition has mailed questionnaires to every Republican Committee in the district to obtain information on the opinions, needs and recommendations for their localities.

"This approach," said Cronin, "will enable me to go to the Convention with as much information as possible on the needs and desires of the Fifth District constituents."

Busy Unit Leaders End Season

July 27, 1972 saw some very tired but happy campers and Unit Leaders leaving Camp Merry-meeting in Andover ending the second session.

The theme for the session was Indian Lore which had the campers busy making teepees, learning Indian songs and dances.

The Day and Stay consisting of the older Cadette Unit, with their Unit Leaders, Mrs. Bruce Baldwin, Billerica, Mrs. David Schuettner of North Reading, constructed a primitive camping area, also attended a circus in Dracut.

Each unit kept busy making a special name sign depicting an Indian Theme. A fly-up unit with the Unit Leaders, Mrs. Guy Mannarino, Tewksbury and Mrs. Albert Sanchez, Wilmington, did theirs on the Cherokee Indians.

While Unit Leaders, Mrs. James Murphy from Billerica and Mrs. William Feran, Tewksbury, supervised the girls, they finished up their sign on the Cree Indians.

Waterfront presented a demonstration of H2O Safety techniques for parents night run by Miss Pat Prentice, Andover, Carol Christopher, Andover, and Mrs. George Lunberg of Billerica.

Crafts under the supervision of Mrs. Arthur Rinker, Wilmington, and Mrs. James Cooney, Tewksbury, continues to have the campers making candles, God's eyes, clay forms and bronze molds.

Mrs. Willis LeFavour from Wilmington had campers observing the different wooded areas to find out where the wild life lives.

One of the Brownie Units run by Mrs. David Burbank, Lawrence, and Mrs. John Sholik also from Lawrence did an original Indian dance.

Mrs. Robert Chester of Wilmington was kept particularly busy purchasing the food for cookouts and helping Unit Leaders plan menus using surplus foods.

Mrs. Chester Stanhope of Atkinson, N.H., camp director, and Mrs. John Foley of Wilmington, the Program Aide Coordinator, on the closing day of the session thanked the Unit Leaders and the delightful Program Aides for helping to make the second session of camp so successful.

Other members of the staff included Mrs. Eugene Rucinski, Billerica, camp nurse, Unit Leaders included Mrs. John Willis, Wilmington, archery specialist, Mrs. Joseph Boudreau, Lawrence, Miss Judy Kehoe, Billerica, Mrs. Doris Metayer, Lawrence, Mrs. James Wakefield, Wilmington, Mrs. Ernest Tremblay, Billerica, Mrs. Richard Hewitt, Billerica, and Mrs. Malcolm MacEachern, Billerica.

300 Million Telephones Link 230 Countries

When Alexander Graham Bell died 50 years ago, the industry his telephone had spawned was still in its infancy. The home telephone, still a luxury for most people, had yet to be plugged into a global network, and satellite communications was still in the realm of science fiction.

Today, in seemingly so short a span, a President can phone astronauts on the moon; government officials, business people and tourists keep in touch across oceans as conveniently as if they were across the street; and citizens everywhere can watch live telecasts of heads of state meeting at the Summit, or view the Olympic games as they happen.

All this is a far cry from the world's first long distance telephone conversation from Cambridgeport to Boston between Bell and his associate, Thomas Watson. This two-mile call on Oct. 9, 1876, was made six months after the pair had demonstrated that Bell's telephone invention could transmit voices. It set in motion the creation of a domestic telephone network that now sends nine million long distance calls over more than 300 million miles of circuits each business day. On an international scale, more than 230 countries and areas are now within reach of nearly all the world's estimated 300 million phones, according to American Telephone and Telegraph Company's Long Lines Department, the Bell System's interstate and international unit.

More than three dozen countries had over a half million telephones at the start of 1971. The United States had slightly more than 120 million phones, second on the list was Japan with just above 25 million, followed by the United Kingdom with 15 million and West Germany with almost 14 million.

At the time of Bell's death, America had 13.9 million telephones, with another 5.6 million in Europe. Since that time, progress has been fast-paced. It was typified by such milestones as: the inauguration of overseas service between New York and London (1927); commercial introduction of much higher capacity facilities with coaxial cable (1941); Bell System's Telstar project, the satellite that conveyed the first television broadcast between the U.S. and Europe 10 years ago, and international direct distance dialing in 1970 that allowed certain U.S. customers to dial Hawaii and part of Europe.

AT&T says progress in the future will outpace that in the past 50 years because of technology just around the corner. For example, the waveguide that will carry 233,000 simultaneous conversations through a single tube is now undergoing experimental tests; first commercial service is planned in 1978. The use of satellites to provide still another communications path for the U.S. telephone network is planned for the mid-70's. A new high-capacity undersea cable is now under development that will help to usher in a new era in international telephone service when it begins operation between the U.S. and Europe in 1976.

IF COMPANY PAYS DIFFERENCE

Here is an income tax question which often arises when an employer transfers its people from one city to another. If the house has to be sold for less than the appraised value, many times the firm will make up the difference in cash. Then the question arises, how should this cash difference be treated on the tax form - as part of the proceeds of the house sale or as ordinary income. The answer is ordinary income.

Under similar circumstances, an IBM employee recently claimed that the $2,000 paid him under the company's "home guarantee policy" did not represent a taxable gain because his new house costs much more than the old one (a common method of deferring taxes). Internal Revenue Service, the Tax

Court and Circuit Court all refuse to consider the sum part of the sale proceeds, ruling instead, that it was reportable as ordinary income.

But this global aspect was anticipated long ago. Bell and others formed AT&T in 1885 to build lines connecting the scattered telephone exchanges throughout the United States (which then had fewer than 150,000 phones); and to join these lines, the certificate of incorporation stated, "by cable and other appropriate means with the rest of the known world."

Now, 50 years after the inven-

Degrees Awarded

At Salem State

Salem State College will award 194 undergraduate and graduate degrees during its annual Summer Commencement ceremonies tomorrow in the college auditorium.

Howard C. Smith, chairman of the Trustees of State Colleges, will award 123 masters' degrees and 71 bachelors' degrees.

Frank L. Keegan, Salem President, will greet the graduates and Dr. Vincent Hawes, Dean of the Graduate School, will preside. The exercises will mark the end of the 1972 Summer Session attended by 2,372 students.

Dr. Marvin J. LaHood, recently appointed academic dean will be the commencement speaker.

Among the degree candidates are: Arthur Gould, 294 Chestnut St., North Andover, Master of Arts and Estelle G. Dion, 1 St. Augustine Drive, Master of Education.

During Prohibition, the Supreme Court ruled that "bootleggers" had to file tax forms even though "bootlegging" was illegal.

PAUL MCINTYRE of Andover Babe Ruth baseball team takes a healthy swing at a Dave Robinson fastball during game last week against North Lawrence at Andover Playstead. McIntyre had a key single in the game, as Andover won 1-0 and captured four of five starts during the week to complete the regular season at 13-8. Catcher is Ed Romano of North Lawrence and umpire is Larry Klimas.

Andover Hopes Rest On Make Up Games

By Rick Harrison

The Andover Babe Ruth baseball team made a strong closing run at a post-season playoff berth in the Greater-Lawrence Babe Ruth League, winning four out of five games last week to finish the regular season with a fine 13-8 overall record.

Not only did Andover win four games, but each one of the victories was a shutout by the local hurler.

Steve Fabiani was the winning chucker as Andover blanked North Lawrence (1-0) and South Lawrence East (3-0). The latter game was played in a constant drizzle last Monday night at the Andover Playstead with the locals desperately needing a victory.

Fourteen-year-old lefty Glenn Verrette was in top form as the Andover nine whitewashed Prospect Hill (9-0), and Dave Mosher won his fifth game by blanking South Lawrence West (8-0).

Mosher stopped SLW on a five-inning, no-hitter, joining Keith Verrette as the second Andover pitcher to toss a no-hit gem this year.

The lone loss of the week was a key 3-2 setback to North Lawrence. A victory in this game would have almost assured Andover of a playoff spot, but now the team must sit back and await the results of the remaining makeup games.

Methuen and North Lawrence are the clubs battling Andover for the third and fourth slots. As the TOWNSMAN went to press Methuen was 9-6 with six games left, and North Lawrence stood at 11-6 with four games remaining.

Methuen has a pair of games to play with first-place North Andover and one against North Lawrence. The latter team must face Tower Hill and Methuen before the season is over.

Andover 1, North Lawrence 0 -- Righthander Steve Fabiani pitched shutout ball to square his record at 3-3, and Andover pushed across the only run of the game in the bottom of the sixth to post this important victory.

Fabiani hooked up in a brilliant pitcher's duel with North Lawrence ace Dave Robinson, whose record dropped to 5-2.

Fabiani allowed just four hits, striking out nine and walking two. Robinson scattered seven singles while fanning six and walking only one batter.

With one out in the bottom of the sixth inning, Glenn Verrette started the winning rally by beating out an infield hit. Paul McIntyre followed with a sharp single to center, sending Verrette scampering to third base.

Steve Galvin then laid down a bunt, and when the throw to first base was mishandled Verrette came home with the deciding run.

North Lawrence mounted a serious threat in the top of the seventh, but Fabiani showed great poise in holding them scoreless.

Leadoff batter Robinson walked on four pitches, after which Ron Rapazzo reached on an error and Dave Bardwell had a bunt single to load the bases with no outs.

The count went to 3-0 on Ray Couture before Fabiani came back to strike him out. Ed Romano followed with a grounder to third base, and Dave Mosher threw home to force Robinson for the second out.

Tony Leonard then lifted a short pop-up which was caught by Joe Pasquale at second base to end the game.

Andover left baserunners stranded at second and third in the first, third, fourth and sixth frames.

Robinson tripled in the first for North Lawrence, but died on third when Rapazzo struck out. Paul Berndston doubled in the third stanza for the losers, but he also was left stranded 90 feet from the plate when Jeff Sabbagh walked and was thrown out stealing.

The Andover singles were by Glenn Verrette, Steve Fabiani, Dave Mosher, Keith Verrette, Jeff Winters, Paul McIntyre and Steve Galvin.

The locals also pulled off their ninth doubleplay, a perfect around-the-horn effort from Dave Mosher to Joe Pasquale to Jeff Winters.

Andover 8, Prospect Hill 0 -- Lefthander Glenn Verrette kept the shutout string alive, firing a brilliant two-hitter as Andover completed a sweep of the season's series with Prospect Hill.

Verrette, in boosting his record to 2-1, struck out eight straight batters during one stretch and finished the game with nine strikeouts and just two walks.

Glenn was never in serious trouble, except in the first when he loaded the bases with two out. Catcher Paul McIntyre ended the threat by picking Jose Rodriguez off first base.

Andover jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first. Dave Mosher walked, stole second and rode home on Keith Verrette's RBI double. An error on Jeff Winters' grounder rescued the second run, and Winters later scored on another infield error.

The advantage jumped to 5-0 in the second. Steve Fabiani ripped a long double with two outs, and successive walks to Mosher and Keith Verrette loaded the bases.

Jeff Winters followed with a two-run single to rightfield, but the inning ended when Winters was thrown out at second base on the play.

Glenn Verrette opened the third stanza with a walk. He stole second and came around to score on two infield grounders by Paul McIntyre and Joe Grillo.

The locals wrapped up the scoring with a pair of runs in the fifth. Jeff Winters was safe on an error. He advanced to second on a passed ball and raced home on Glenn Verrette's sharp RBI single to leftfield.

Paul McIntyre followed with a single to left which sent Verrette scampering to third, and Glenn trotted home on Joe Pasquale's RBI hit.

The lone Prospect Hill safeties were singles by Sam Milone and (Continued on Page 15)

Rodriguez in the first innings respectively.

Andover 9, South West 0 -- Dave Mosher extended the shutout through three games.

Mosher jumped his 5-2, fanning four and walking only one ball as the infield by SLW.

The winners vaulted edge after the first from Fabiani and Dave Mosher back-to-back walks of pitcher Jaime Burton moved up on a double.

Keith Verrette then stole home to lift the two-run single to left, up to second on the throw. Verrette stole then stole home to lift to 3-0.

Andover sent eight batters to the plate in the first, netting five runs, including a home run, insurmountable 8-0 lead.

Joe Grillo beat out Steve Fabiani was fielder's choice and Dave Mosher had an infield single bases.

Grillo was forced out. Keith Verrette's grounder shortstop, but the ball quickly cleared when Verrette's infield bouncer into rightfield and scored. Winters crossed three pitches later on ball.

The final tally came Verrette walked, stole home after two outs.

The locals added a run in the fifth. Glenn singled, went all the way on an infield out and a passed ball.

Dave Mosher boosted his age over the .400 mark with a solo safe collected by Glenn Verrette and Joe Grillo.

Andover stole 11 bases, and reeled off a doubleplay when Mosher a liner at the mound to first baseman Glenn to force Joe Pappalaris walked.

Mosher helped himself with six assists.

North Lawrence 3, Andover 10 -- Andover had its winning streak snapped, and also dealt a severe blow.

Rodriguez in the first and fourth innings respectively.

Andover 9, South Lawrence West 0 -- Dave Moshier's no-hitter extended the shutout streak through three games.

Moshier jumped his record to 5-2, fanning four and walking four as only one ball was hit out of the infield by SLW.

The winners vaulted to a 3-0 edge after the first frame. Steve Fabiani and Dave Moshier drew back-to-back walks off starting pitcher Jaimie Burton, and both moved up on a double steal.

Keith Verrette then lashed a two-run single to left, and moved up to second on the throw to the plate. Verrette stole third and then stole home to lift the spread to 3-0.

Andover sent eight more batters to the plate in the second inning, netting five runs for an insurmountable 8-0 lead.

Joe Grillo beat out a bunt, Steve Fabiani was safe on a fielder's choice and Dave Moshier had an infield single to load the bases.

Grillo was forced at home on Keith Verrette's grounder to shortstop, but the bases were quickly cleared when Jeff Winters' infield bouncer was thrown into rightfield and three runs scored. Winters crossed the plate three pitches later on a passed ball.

The final tally came when Glenn Verrette walked, stole second and came home after two wild pitches.

The locals added their ninth run in the fifth. Glenn Verrette singled, went all the way to third on an infield out and scored on a passed ball.

Dave Moshier boosted his average over the .400 mark with two hits, while solo safeties were collected by Glenn and Keith Verrette and Joe Grillo.

Andover stole 11 bases in the game, and reeled off its 10th doubleplay when Moshier stabbed a liner at the mound and flipped to first baseman Glenn Verrette to force Joe Pappalardo who had walked.

Moshier helped himself defensively with six assists.

North Lawrence 3, Andover 2 -- Andover had its three-game win streak snapped, and this loss also dealt a severe blow to the team's playoff hopes.

A pair of homeruns accounted for all three North Lawrence runs, as Juan Castillo belted a two-run job in the third and Dave Bardwell won the game with a solo shot in the sixth inning.

Other than that losing hurler Keith Verrette (1-2) pitched a masterful game. He allowed just three hits altogether, with the other one being a bloop single in the fifth. Verrette walked one and struck out four.

Andover managed only four hits off winner Ron Rapazzo. Included were long doubles by Glenn Verrette and Dave Moshier.

The locals grabbed a 1-0 lead in the second when Glenn Verrette slammed a solid double over the short fence in rightfield, and later scored on Steve Galvin's two-out single to right.

The home team came back with two in the third. Paul Berndston reached on an error, and came all the way around to score on Castillo's homerun to center-field.

Andover battled back to knot the score 2-2 in the top of the sixth. Thom Lawler led with a walk, and advanced to third on successive bunts by Steve Fabiani and Dave Moshier.

Keith Verrette followed with a sharp single to rightfield to rescue Lawler.

However, in the bottom of the stanza, Bardwell unloaded his line drive homerun to left center-field for what proved to be the deciding marker.

Andover came within 90 feet of tying the game in the seventh. Glenn Verrette led with a walk, and alertly stole second and third base.

But Rapazzo bore down to retire Paul McIntyre on a pop-up, Steve Galvin on a bouncer to the mound and Dave Rindone on a strikeout to end the game.

chance came in the fourth when Mosher led with a ground-rule double. A wicked line drive back to the box by Keith Verrette was deflected by Rapazzo. The ball caromed to shortstop Castillo who threw Verrette out by a step.

An outfield fly and an infield grounder ended the threat.

Verrette saved himself some trouble in the fifth, striking out always-dangerous Dave Robinson (.650 average) with North Lawrence runners perched at second and third.

BENEDICTINE'S SECRET

The oldest liqueur to survive the test of time is the world-famous D.O.M. Benedictine, which is still produced on the identical spot where its secret formula was discovered in 1510. This formula is one of the most closely guarded secrets in the world. Only three people at any given time know the exact formula. Numerous attempts have been made to imitate it, but all have failed.

It was originally used by the monks at the Benedictine monastery in Fecamp, France to relieve fatigue. The D.O.M. which appears on every label stands for the Latin words which mean "To God, Most Good, Most Great."

Benedictine's base is cognac brandy flavored with herbs and plants. The parent company also produces a combination of Benedictine and Brandy which is drier than the sweet Benedictine alone. It is called D.O.M. B&B.

Andover 3, South Lawrence East 4 -- Steve Fabiani (4-3) fired a fine five-hit shutout as Andover closed out the regular season on a winning note and kept its playoff hopes alive.

Fabiani fanned seven and walked only one, registering his second shutout in less than a week and the fourth in the last five games for Andover pitchers.

Steve received all the offensive support he needed from Glenn Verrette in the first inning.

Fabiani led with a walk, and after Dave Mosher bounced into a forceout Keith Verrette singled. Both runners moved up on a wild pitch by 13-year-old Chuck Prescott, and then Glenn Verrette lashed a solid two-run single to rightfield to make it 2-0.

The locals added an insurance tally in the bottom of the fifth. Fabiani beat out an infield hit, and advanced to second base on a throwing error by shortstop Jim LoFredo.

Steve raced to third on an infield out and scored when Keith Verrette lofted a long sacrifice fly to leftfield.

Fabiani and Glenn Verrette laced two hits apiece for Andover, while solo safeties were contributed by Keith Verrette and Joe Grillo.

Steve Comparone was the peskiest of the SLE batters, ripping a long double and single for the losers.

Andover reeled off doubleplay No. 11, as Fabiani speared a liner by Tony Grillo at the mound and fired to Jeff Winters at first to double up Gary Shottes.

Glenn Verrette was another defensive star for Andover, throwing Shottes out at first base on a ground ball to centerfield to end the game.

So now Andover must sit back and await the results of the other makeup games to see if it has gained a post-season playoff spot.

Mrs. Bertha Asoian Leaves School Post

Mrs. Bertha (Higus) Asoian, executive secretary in the Andover School Department for 15 years retired July 31.

Tuesday, her co-workers and friends in the department held a morning coffee during which Mr. Jack Berberian, Supervisor of School Services, presented her a gift check from the group. Dr. Richard A. Katz of the School Committee joined the group and extended good wishes and presented a gift.

Mrs. Asoian was praised as an outstanding efficient worker in the school's administrative department. She was told that her many friends will miss her pleasant association with her. She is making plans for travel during the late summer and fall.

Davidson, an entrepreneur who formerly owned the Andover Shop, a men's furnishings store on Main St., is involved with the development of a vast plot of land that once was prime farm acreage in Vermont. He is president of the Quechee Lakes Corporation, which virtually owns an entire town.

Before branching out into wider fields, Davidson bought up some dilapidated buildings on Essex St., and had them extensively renovated. Today, they are made up into small apartments and attractively landscaped, although unlikely to be noticed by anyone driving past in a hurry. Their beauty external lies in the court-yards in back of the fronting street.

Davidson's original plan was to have the Temple Place buildings vacated and then to begin extensive rehabilitation. But four of the 15 available rental units were still occupied and the tenants were reluctant to move.

The rents ran from $60 to $120 a month. Davidson hoped to divide six and seven room flats into three and four-room units renting at around $200 a month.

When the tenants argued they had no place to go at similar rents, Davidson replied that that was not his responsibility and that there was plenty of housing for low income families in Lawrence.

That stand created heated reaction from both Andover and Lawrence citizens, since the town has been in hot water enough from controversy over low income housing here. The selectmen have refused so far to cooperate with the Merrimack Valley Planning Commission which seeks to distribute 4,000 units of subsidized housing through 12 municipalities in the area. The Andover board says it seeks further study of the situation.

Meanwhile, Temple Place has continued to go downhill physically. Crews have been hired to start cleaning out empty property, but no eviction notices have been served.

Davidson's agreement will make it possible for a representative from the state Department of Community Affairs to visit Andover and appraise the property. It was purchased for $110,000.

Eldred explained that under Chapter 705 of the General Laws of Massachusetts, the state may buy property for low and moderate income housing.

Northern Essex Community College, Haverhill, announces the presentation of a new associate degree program in Mental Health Technology in the Division of Human Services.

Other programs in the Division are Child Care and Law Enforcement. The Mental Health Technology program has been approved by the Massachusetts Board of Regional Community Colleges and the Massachusetts State Board of Higher Education.

The Mental Health Technology program is a response to the growing need, identified nationally and on the state level, for carefully trained psychiatric technicians to provide adequate mental health care and services. Psychiatric technicians are also needed to extend mental health care facilities out from the institution setting into the community and home.

These technicians will supplement professional services in mental health institutions and agencies, after-care clinics, half-way houses, home treatment programs, schools, pre-school programs, mental retardation in-patient facilities and sheltered workshops.

The curriculum instructs students in the theory and skills needed to recognize mental health problems in individuals, in groups and in the community.

Places Third In National Model Contest

Tommy Hetley, 8 Crestwood Drive, has been named a third prize winner in the national Lego "Make-A-Model" contest sponsored by Samsonite Toys, a division of Samsonite Corporation.

Tommy's entry was judged a winner from over a thousand imaginative entries from all 50 states. D. L. Blair Corporation, an independent judging organization, reviewed each entry and selected the winners.

As a third prize winner, Tommy receives an exciting Lego set to continue his creative building.

All Models entered in the competition were made of Lego building pieces, which come in bricks and gears of assorted sizes, roof and ridge tiles, windows, doors, wheels, axles, turntables and tires.

"Most of the entries submitted," said Thomas P. O'Mara, vice president and general manager of Samsonite Toys, "proved the value of Lego in capturing a child's imagination. Its use is unlimited due to its snap-together design -- it becomes whatever the child wishes. And it can change or remain the same depending on the fantasies of the child."

Pickup

The cost of municipal refuse pickup for Andover is something townspeople may ponder long and hard over before making a decision in October.

The price tag at this point is a conservative $200,000.

The service is now performed by private contractors in the town.

As part of the consideration of a new dump site, townspeople will also be asked to give the municipal administration their thoughts on municipal refuse pickup.

The article to be acted upon in October will be advisory in nature, with the voters returning again in March at the annual town meeting to fund the service if approved.

The proposal makes a decision on the dump even more difficult.

In addition to the expense of acquisition and operation of a new dump site, the taxpayers will also be considering the increased financial burden of a municipal pickup service.

Town-directed refuse operations will relieve traffic problems to and from the new dump site to a degree, but the $200,000 per year for combined trash and garbage collection, represents $1 plus the tax rate.

What direction the new service will take is another consideration.

Private contractors now performing this service locally must be considered in any proposal. Can the service be initiated utilizing the men already performing it, or must the new operations be handled under one general contractor?

Of course, the one utopian solution to the whole problem of refuse disposal is to find some place that wants it and can utilize waste, such as the proposed new power generating facility to be constructed in Saugus.

This, of course, may be too much to hope for, but we assume that the municipal administration is looking into such matters.

It is not too much to ask that an abundance of alternatives be explored before the town is finally faced with making the ultimate decisions in October.

Frailty?

Ah, the frailty and folly of the female of the species!

Women's Liberation suffered a crushing blow last week when it was revealed that the first female to win a top prize in the Massachusetts Lottery was not a Providence, R. I. girl after all, but a member of the leadership of the League of Women Voters.

The ultimate revelation struck the female liberationists in a rather vulnerable area - namely records, attainment, etc.

We can understand the plight of the Milton female who had won the $50,000 through purchase of a lottery ticket.

It is well within reason that she would conform to all federal and state regulations in receiving the prized check.

It is further understandable that she would not wish any publicity.

For as a leader of the League of Women Voters, an organization which opposed the lottery process, this would not sit well with her fellow officers, directors and study directors, many, if not all, we trust, clutch a little green ticket to THE GAME, each week.

But, like all nuances, the lottery was becoming stale news on a weekly basis until the first female winner was declared, then the newsmen found something worthwhile to report.

Further, probably by suggestion, a check of past records showed that the Milton female had attained the first distinction for the female side, and the girl from Rhode Island had to drop to second place.

Further, our Milton LWV officer attains additional distinction of having been the only person to date to successfully keep her name from print per request of her legal advisors.

For that, we say shame on the league for attempting to lude the press.

Weather

There have been all sorts of explanations for the various forms of weather which have been descending upon us lately, not the least of which are the moonflights, other space explorations, etc.

But there is always a bright spot to such things as the persistency of rain this summer.

It has provided dual relief in the area of water supply and the pocketbook.

Haggetts pond is at its highest peak in history for this time of year, insuring an adequate supply during the time of year when water usage is high.

That the reservoir is not diminishing during a period when it normally would be subject to heavy draft, is due to the lack of such auxiliary water uses as sprinkling lawns and gardens.

Thus the saving in household funds.

Normally the late afternoon and early evening hours of summer's day around Andover are filled with arching sprinklers over a multitude of lawns.

Such has not been a necessity this year so far, and the reining of Andover has been nature's own this year.

So despite its pestiferous consistency, the rains of '72 have been beneficial.

What Our Readers Say:

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Many Andover town residents were disappointed at the refusal of our board of selectmen to work with the Merrimack Valley Planning Commission and the Department of Community Affairs in the development of a formula to allocate low-income units in the Merrimack Valley. As a result of this decision, our community's elected government lost its potential to influence the thinking and planning of the regional and state agencies.

Since the board of selectmen have voted to plan and implement their own housing program, citizens groups committed to balanced housing, i.e. REACH, and tenants presently living in public housing (and familiar with its problems and possibilities should be included) in the development of a housing proposal to insure a more effective housing plan.

If our town government is serious about its own plan, then it will be mandatory for positive action to begin immediately.

Jan Scheerer
4 Haven Drive

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Thank you for the lead editorial on open education. We welcome publicity for our fledgling group, which is now meeting publicly on Wednesday evenings at the library to discuss possibilities of alternative education in the public schools. It is comforting that the TOWNSMAN feels that "freedom is fine", and one of the ways to "appreciate its value" is to involve oneself in the discussion of education.

Contrary to your editorial, this is not a frivolous concept that has just come along in the warped perceptions of a few townspeople. It has its roots deep in the history of education, and more recently in the decades of experimentation by Piaget in Geneva, in the free school movement in British primary schools over the past 25 years, in the whole school system of North Dakota, in schools in New York under the leadership of Dr. Lillian Weber, in the writings of such authors as Silberman, Featherstone, Holt, etc. There are many schools in New England, both public and private, which have been developing schools modelled on the British free school, such as the public Lincoln School in Brookline, which offers parents both traditional and free school approaches in the same building. The Mass. Dept. of Education is very interested in these developments and has a great deal of material available.

The problem is to utilize and adapt this to Andover. There is a lot of work to be done; discussing the literature, visiting such schools as the Lincoln school, working with the superintendent and teachers, and eventually coming up with a carefully worked out model to be implemented here and available for those parents who are interested. These are our goals, and we look forward to meeting and working with interested people, both inside and outside of the school system.

It is unfortunate that the TOWNSMAN thinks we are asking for a sloppy school where children can turn into lazy hellions. Educational alternatives are not between kicking children and a riot. We are parents and teachers who are deeply interested that our children educate themselves to face this complex world. This involves hard work by the child and by parents, teachers, administrators, and community, whose help he needs. Children want to learn, and discipline problems come not from structure, but from the kinds of structures that deny children the core of their being...their desire to be people and to be involved in their own education.

Education in Andover in the 70's promises to be interesting. Dr. Seifert has breathed fresh air into our school system. This has resulted in increased community involvement in our schools, and we hope to encourage and be a part of this trend.

Down the Years with The Townsman

75 Years Ago - August, 1897

The sidewalk on the south side of Bartlet street from Morton street to Chapel avenue is being concreted this week.

Lewis T. Hardy, chief of the fire department is in attendance at the convention of the National Association of Fire Engineers in New Haven, Conn.

The corporation return of the Andover Electric Co. is as follows: Assets - Real Estate, $12,414.01; machinery, $50,338.96; miscellaneous, $2,479.13; to al-$65,232.10; Liabilities - Capital, $30,000; debts, $34,024.32, total, $64,024.32.

Tomorrow the members of the Eben Sutton Fire company will entertain firemen from Methuen, Ballardvale and Andover at Echo camp.

Richardson and Pitman have completed the construction of a stable on Temple Place for J. W. Barnard.

50 Years Ago - August, 1922

Smith and Dove overseers hold successful outing at Hood's Pond in Topsfield. Married men show superiority in baseball, but the singles equal their record in quoits.

A joint meeting of the selectmen and school committee was held on Friday to settle on the location of the new Shawsheen schoolhouse. No decision was reached.

The fish and game club has received from the state hatcheries in Sandwich, 20,000 fingerling trout which have been placed in the different ponds and brooks in town by Leonard Saunders.

The Andover Fire Department was called Saturday night at 12 o'clock for a fire in a truck in the Shawsheen garage. It was dangerously close to the gas tanks which caused some excitement, but quick work by the fire department resulted in only the loss of the truck.

A motorcyclist collided with a Hood's milk wagon at Central and School streets Monday. The cyclist did a couple of somersaults but was otherwise uninjured.

25 Years Ago - August, 1947

Midsummer doldrums still continue. The heat is so bad many of the mills have been forced to close down along with some of the stores.

Board of Public Works receives petition asking that the conditions at the playstead be remedied. A new surface is needed badly.

The selectmen are taking a survey of town property for insurance purposes. In light of present values, an increase of half-million dollars may be necessary in January.

There is a very great possibility that the town may have parking meters. The selectmen are studying the matter after the legislature recently approved of such municipal installations.

The blackberries are especially plentiful and delicious this year. If you are seeking some of the succulent fruit, follow the hornets and take along iodine for scratches.

10 Years Ago - August, 1962

Town manager considering three bids on municipal collection of garbage. Only one of three proposals within town meeting appropriation of $25,000.

Town officials concerned about next step in creation of recreation and athletic fields at high school after bids for work come in far in excess of money available.

Lovejoy road will be pitted and scarred for the opening of the new school there in September as the Chapter 90 reconstruction project will not be completed in time.

The selectmen have approved the sending of an additional $1,500 to the state for the Rogers Brook project.

Helpful hint to filling station operators: you could increase your business beyond the pump and hoists if you gave customer tips on little things you might notice, such as worn tires, back-up light not working or anything underneath during a greasing and oil job. One Andover motorist, facing extensive front end repairs on a year-old car, has crossed off at least two local stations from further visits.

Helpful hints to motorists: you will be a lot more popular with drivers behind you on throughways if you start at least edging toward the deceleration lane when you have signalled you are heading for a ramp, instead of swooping off at the last moment. And coming onto a throughway you will be tabbed a nice gal or guy if you use the acceleration lane instead of roaring on like a combat tank.

Helpful hint to policemen: policeman's lot is not a happy one, but it might be happier if you at least nodded to folks who try to speak to you in a neighborly way on the street.

Turn off the sound and listen to the WHDH radio account by the Martins, Ned and Dave. For the most part, they stick to the ball game and the action. This ball doesn't solve the camera work, which usually leaves the viewer watching only the front end of a double play or a shot of the plate umpire while the first baseman is plucking a foul out of the stands.

Monk Parrot Invading N.E.

Expect an emotional argument soon over what should be the fate of the monk parrots that now are invading New England.

For the last four or five years, these foot-long greenish parrots with gray breasts have been breeding in the wild in New York.

Last weekend two monk parrots were discovered in the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge.

Monk parrots in the wild cause two reactions which tend to clash head-on. It is another wild bird for birdwatchers to list. But, it is a most destructive pest, particularly damaging to fruit and to some truck garden crops.

Many ornithologists believe that the parrot should be stamped out immediately.

Mrs. Edward F. Doyle

Doyle - Joy

Miss Leslie Marion Joy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Joy of Andover, became the bride of Mr. Edward Francis Doyle, Jr., of Dorchester.

The ceremony took place in Christ Church, Andover with Rev. J. Edison Pike and Rev. Joseph F. Gill, OSA, jointly officiating. The reception was held at Andover Inn, at Phillips Academy, following the 2 p.m. ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned of Sata peau. Venice lace enhanced the bodice, the dutchess collar, the cuffs of the bishop sleeves, and some lace also shown on the hemline of the softly full skirt and chapel length train. The three tiered veil of silk English illusion fell from a cap of Venice lace, dotted with baby pearls and iridescent sparkle. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and delphinium.

It was a rainbow wedding with the matron of honor, Mrs. Elaine Francis in lavender, bridesmaids; Miss Suzanne Welin in aqua and Miss Jeanne Schneider in hot pink, all from Fitchburg. The gowns were fashioned of voile chiffon featuring high necklines and long, full sleeves. They were topped with flowered pinafores with ruffled bodice and hem. They wore picture hats and carried daisy poms in matching shades. The flower girl, Robin Beaudry, of Peabody, was in matching gown and pinafore in white.

The bride's twin brothers, David Norman and William Harding were junior ushers.

Best man was Daniel Doyle, brother of the bridegroom, from Cape Cod.

Brother of the bride, Charles Joy and Richard Maiolo and Robert Morin of Fitchburg, were ushers.

The bride received her B.S. degree this year from Fitchburg College. The bridegroom also graduated from Fitchburg College, and achieved his Masters degree in Deaf Education from Boston University. He teaches the teen-age deaf at Canton Regional High School.

They went to Montreal on their wedding trip, and are making their home on the South Shore.

Mrs. William G. Crisman

Crisman - Partridge

On Saturday, Aug. 5, Miss Joy Partridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Herne Partridge of Andover, was married to Mr. William George Crisman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Radford Crisman of Eagle Rock, Los Angeles, at a small family wedding in the garden of her home. Rev. J. Everett Bodge, minister of South Church, Andover, read the ceremony.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. David T. Partridge, was her only attendant and the bridegroom's father served as his best man. A reception followed at the Lanam Club.

The bride, a graduate of Abbot

Academy and Vassar College, has a master's degree from Boston University. She has taught English at the International School in Bangkok, at Sidwell Friends in Washington, D.C., and at the Polytechnic School in Pasadena.

Her husband, who is a writer, is a graduate of Pasadena Polytechnic School and of the University of California at Berkeley, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Now a doctoral candidate at Berkeley, he has been awarded a Fulbright fellowship for study at the University of Tubingen, Germany, where he and his bride will live next year.

If summer never really seemed to have arrived this year, the first unmistakable signs of fall have developed over the last week. These are the berries on rowan trees (sometimes known as mountain ash) around town. The berries have gone from green to orange in a short time. When they turn bright red in a few weeks, the robins and evening grosbeaks will swoop in for a blast. Often the birds become intoxicated, or whatever birds have for the equivalent, and will be reeling against picture windows and generally behaving out of control.

A lady who dropped in at the TOWNSMAN office the other day expressed concern over the apparent ignorance of bicyclists concerning traffic laws. She said she frequently is impeded by

Andover Woman On Inter-Agency Review Board

Mrs. Victor Duxbury

Mrs. Victor Duxbury of 151 Hidden Road was recently appointed to the Ad Hoc Solid Waste Committee of the Water Resources Commission by Commissioner Arthur Brownell of the Department of Natural Resources.

The committee was set up last spring at the direction of Governor Sargent to provide an inter-agency review of all regional solid waste proposals, especially their environmental impact, and an analysis of new, innovative solutions for the disposal of solid waste. Mrs. Duxbury will serve as a public member of the committee.

The Andover resident also is a member of the environmental quality committee of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, responsible for the area of solid waste. She must keep league environmental committee chairmen throughout the state informed of decisions on solid waste by the executive division of the government, pending legislation in this field, of state agency programs and of activities for solid waste and proposals and problems at the community and regional levels.

Last year she was chairman of the Andover League of Women Voters Environment Quality committee which studied the methods of and problems associated with solid waste disposal.

Porsche Audi: a division of Volkswagen

In a race there are two things you can count on. The unexpected and the unpredictable. So the car must respond with an almost animal quickness and sureness.

Speed alone is not enough. Every part of the car must possess the utmost in reliability. For Porsche, racing is the ultimate test of that.

We use the classic courses and tracks of the world as our research laboratories. They are the proving and improving grounds for established ideas. And the head-waters of inspiration for new ones. It is not incidental that we have been the world's champions for the last 3 years in a row.

The more we race, the more features we prove. And only when something has passed the test of the track does it ever show up on a car for the street.

Everything we've learned goes into the Mid-Engine Porsche 914 and the Porsche 911.

At Porsche we do not race to make a name; we race to build a car.

"Racing is the ultimate test."

Easter Seal Pilot Program For Bay State

The Massachusetts Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults has been chosen by its national organization to re-search and develop a model advocacy program for physically handicapped children.

If successful, it is hoped that such a program also will be developed in other states.

The demonstration project is made possible by an initial $104,215 grant to the national society by three sections of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare. They are the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped, the National Institute for Mental Health and the Rehabilitation Services Administration.

W. Scott Allan, Massachusetts Society president, made the announcement.

"The project," Allan said, "represents a new concept of pooling community resources and effort to modify or eliminate traditional barriers for the physically handicapped child. It is expected to increase understanding of the physically handicapped child's needs, the service he requires and contribute to greater acceptance by his peers in the community in which he lives."

Allan described the project as a pioneering and challenging undertaking, which is expected to run for three years. Ultimately, it is intended to open the door for similar child programs among the 2,000 other Easter Seal affiliates in the 50 states.

Allan, in explaining the project, said it was designed to help solve both state and local community problems through the establishment of a Child Advocacy Association and Board.

"We hope," Allan said, "to bring together parents and interested persons from schools, public and private agencies and other involved groups in the community to achieve change in attitudes, legislation, policy and practices that prevent physically disabled children from achieving opportunities related to home, community, health, education, employment and legal rights."

"We also hope to identify the physically disabled children who have been deprived of these rights and act on their behalf on an individual basis."

"The project's central objective," Allan said, "is to ensure that each physically handicapped child in the Commonwealth is reared in an environment that will secure his rights as a citizen and allow him to develop his full potential."

Neglect of the physically and mentally handicapped is well documented, according to Allan. "It persists," he said, "in spite of a myriad of programs at national, state and local levels, both governmental and private."

The Massachusetts Easter Seal Society was chosen to implement this pilot project because its philosophy since its inception in 1944 has been one of pioneer and demonstration. In particular, the state Society's new social action program aimed at improving the environment of the physically handicapped through better housing, transportation and educational opportunities was a major factor in the selection.

"Through our staff and volunteers around the state," Allan said, "the Society has found social concern and a desire to help the individual physically handicapped child in his day to day struggle to meet his needs and wants in his own community."

The announced HEW grant provides for staff consisting of a project director, child advocates and consultants in research, education and child development, law, medicine, mental health and sociology.

Essex Board Studies Loans

A total of $1.9 million in Small Business Administration loans for expansion of existing industries or the construction of new industries in Essex County is under consideration by the County Economic Development Corporation, Atty. Daniel J. Burke of Peabody, Chairman of the Essex County Commissioners, has announced.

Commissioner Burke noted that the non-profit group of businessmen, labor leaders and government officials has successfully completed financing of two Lawrence area firms during the past year.

These included construction of a new plant by Alco Electric Products Co. opposite the Western Electric Co. plant in North Andover and construction of a new facility for the Breen Funeral Home in Lawrence.

The first practical motorcycle built in the United States was manufactured in Buffalo, N.Y., in 1900. It was really little more than an ordinary bicycle fitted with a one-cylinder engine, a flat belt and a rear wheel pulley.

Andover Clock Shop

The Andover Clock Shop opened in January of this year at 15
Barnard Street. Although new to Andover, Dino Argentini, owner has been active in clock and watch repair for 27 years, and the shop was located in his home in Danvers for 15 years. He is an engineer turned clockmaker professionally.

The Andover Clock Shop sells, repairs, buys and appraises clocks and watches. In addition,
Mr. Argentini manufactures clocks. First in a series of Early American clocks to be produced by the Andover Clock Shop is the beautiful banjo clock shown above. It is an eight-day time-piece, a reproduction of the Simon Willard banjo timepiece, an outstanding example of elegance in clockmaking. All components are manufactured here in Massachusetts.

The Andover Clock Shop specializes in the repair of antique clocks and watches. Mr. Argen-tini also does work for leading antique dealers and lectures on the subject of watches and clocks, and also astronomy, to historical societies, etc. He has built some astronomical regulator clocks at his home, his astronomical observatory being an extension of his interest in time-keeping.

Among the interesting clocks on display at the Andover Clock Shop is a full line of Seth Thomas clocks and reproductions of Early American clocks by Heyden-Trapani, Inc. You will see Grandfather clocks, Grandmother
clocks, Banjo, Bracket, French

Mantel, Beehive, Steeple and modern decorator wall clocks.
They also feature new and antique barometers.

Estimates are given free at the Andover Clock Shop. Mr.
Argentini is a member of the National Assoc. of Clock & Watch
Collectors and has an extensive personal collection. He is interested in buying pieces to add to his own collection or to repair for resale.

Visit the Andover Clock Shop, around the corner at 15 Barnard Street, Andover. Open daily from 9 to 5:30 except Sunday and Monday. Telephone 475-0742.

Project Find Seeks Eligibles For Food Aid

A nationwide campaign to identify and enroll older Americans eligible for Federal Food Assistance Programs has been announced today by the White House.

The campaign -- Project FIND -- will be headed by Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, Chairman of the White House Conference on Aging and former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will be co-Chairman.

Dr. Flemming said that the effort to locate Americans eligible for the Federal Food Programs either food stamps or commodities, is the President's response to a recommendation concerning the nutritional needs of older Americans by delegates to last December's White House Conference on Aging.

"The nutritional problems of the elderly are complex and defy easy solutions. An imaginative and creative joint public and private effort, such as Project FIND, promises to be an effective means of meeting those needs," Flemming said.

Four government agencies and the American Red Cross are participating in the program. It will include a direct mail effort to over 27 million men and women, 22.5 million of whom are over 60; a public service advertising and public information campaign and the recruitment of up to 50,000 volunteers to locate and assist persons eligible for assistance.

Eligibility is contingent on income, assets and family size. Project FIND volunteers will assist individuals in contacting local public assistance officials who certify eligibility.

The search will be accomplished through the ACTION, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Office of Economic Opportunity, Social Security Administration and the Red Cross.

The Department of Agriculture administers Federal Food Assistance through food stamps or commodity programs in approximately 3100 counties and other jurisdictions throughout the United States.

The Social Security Administration communicated with all recipients of Social Security and Medicare in a mailing sent to 27 million persons last week.

An enclosed brochure outlined how recipients might qualify and enroll in the programs. A pre-paid post card permitted recipients to request personal assistance if required.

The American Red Cross will enroll, train and supervise up to 50,000 volunteers in an effort to reach the eligible older Americans requiring assistance.

The Office of Economic Opportunity, through a $4.4 million contract, will be the funding agency for the activity.

ACTION, the government citizen service corps, will provide the project management and public information services.

ment surplus warehouse in the Boston area when he spotted the electronic equipment.

The equipment was designed for a missile tracking system, but Lewis learned that it would fill the bill for the recording device Police Chief David L. Nicoll had requested some time ago. It also will be tied into the Civil Defense system for monitoring communications there.

The primary purpose of the recorder is to enable the police to review calls made to headquarters. For example, a citizen calling in an emergency might be too excited to speak clearly or coherently. By playing back the tape, the police would be better able to sort out the conversation calmly.

Part of the system is tied into a Canadian radio station that continually broadcasts the correct time. This is done by beeps on a 60-minute cycle, with a voice recording of individual minutes in both English and French. This pinpoints the time of each call.

Before finishing his shopping tour, Lewis was able to pick up some furniture and other equipment for the new drop-in center and for the high school.
